Vegetable Directory,
UTAH.

Area, 100, 382 square miles—Population 50,000.

The Capital, Great Salt Lake City, (Population 17,000) is situated on the great highway westward in the grand center of the golden empire comprising Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona. The City is one of the most beautiful in the Union and the largest between St. Louis and Sacramento. Its scenery of mountains is majestic and its view of islands and Lake is peculiarly picturesque. The City proper is a square of three miles each side, and contains 200 blocks of 10 acres each (each divided into 8 lots) and 4 public squares. Its level streets running due east and west and north and south are 128 feet wide, with shade trees along either side, and the streets are water flowing from both sides of every street, to irrigate the fruit trees and gardens. The Territory is divided into twenty counties, the names of which range from 5,000 to 600 population.

Miners Meeting.

At a meeting of the locators of claims in the Snake Valley Mining District, Beaver county, Utah Territory, and of the Parawan Mining District, Millard county, Utah Territory, held at Fort Bridger, U. T. March 13th, 1865, pursuant to notice duly published as prescribed by the Laws of said district, Geo. W. Chamberlain, was called to the chair, and Henry Wilson was chosen Secretary.

The Chairman then stated that the object of the meeting was to revise and amend Art. 5th of the Laws of the said district, for the better protection of the interests of the locators of mining claims therein.

The Chair then appointed a Committee of three to consider the matter, who, after deliberation, presented the following amendment and recommended its adoption.

The meeting then considered the matter, a motion of Mr. L. Homedue, the following was adopted, in lieu of the original, as Article 5th of the By-Laws of said Districts.

Article 5th, as amended: In each location as prescribed, there shall be done fifty dollars worth of work within six months from this date, or from the date of location thereof.

Each individual claimant paying or working his pro rata amount of the requisite fifty dollars; or, upon failure to do so, his claims shall be subject to re-location. When the said amount of fifty dollars worth of work shall have been done, the Recorder shall grant certificates of real estate or realty to each claimant who has complied with the Laws. He shall also, upon application, grant said certificates to the owners of all claims upon which the requisite amount of work has already been done. Provided, however, that, should the claimant be prevented from working by local insurrection or rebellion, their claims shall not be forfeited; and provided, further, that no claim belonging to a soldier shall be subject to re-location until after six months shall have elapsed after his discharge from the service of the United States, unless he shall sign an agreement or "Articles of Incorporation" to the contrary.

The Chair then declared the meeting adjourned sine die.

GEO. W. CHAMBERLAIN, President.
HENRY WILSON, Secretary.

The Salt Lake Herald.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUG. 2, 1865.

They Shrink from the Ordinal.

We suppose that the polygamists, what with the consciousness of guilt haunting their fearful souls and the diligent inquiries they have made, are pretty well satisfied, by this time, that the Government will ere long apply to them the true, practical test of loyalty—obedience to its laws. It is very evident that such a conclusion has been arrived at among the leaders and the signs of repudiation manifested. The disposition shows to shrink into the crowd, to hide their nakedness under the fig leaf of pretended religion, while they abuse us, are not without instruction to the serious observer.

Here are some who would fain arrogate to themselves the enduring honors which ever belong to the founders of new and more elevated religions—purer and more perfect systems of morality. Heretofore it has always been the aim to discipline the passions, which were ever reckoned the most intractable enemies, in their native strength, to purity in morals and religion. But these would-be founders of a new faith, these so-called Saints and self-appointed prophets, point an easier way to reach perfection, in which virtue is led captive to inclination, and the devotee is taught that he is best serving the Lord when giving loose rein to his most degrading passions.

It is not to be supposed that a faith of such easy practice would long beggar for advocates or adherents; indeed, he who could reconcile the consciences of men to such a creed, which unites to the promised rewards of piety, in the future, all the seductive allurements of unlicensed indulgence in the pleasures of the present, would probably be looked upon by his believers as a very superior personage, certainly a public benefactor and perhaps a prophet. Progress is so much easier downward than upward; it is so much more difficult to climb to the summits of our aspirations than it is to slide gently down into the pleasant vale of indulgence, that really it is not a matter of surprise, that very many should prefer the luxurious ease of the one to the arduous labors of the other, and forget, in the narrow limits of their sensual paradise, the glories of such sublime elevation, the pure breath of heaven wafted there, the grandeur of soul and the vastness of vision there obtained.

We can see right before us how eagerly such a creed is embraced. For years have the Mormon leaders, listening to the whispered persuasion of their own passions, taught this faith to their disciples and urged them on in the path of immorality well knowing themselves that every step led them beyond the defined limits of public law. Nay more, these leaders because they did not experience any immediate penalties for disobedience, fancied themselves secure and scouted to their misguided followers the idea that any power would ever presume to undertake their punishment. But should such an attempt be made, why, were they not the Lord's people? would he not deliver them from danger and what power should withstand his anger? Thus have these pretenders taught, thus deceived those that trusted in them, but now, when the retributive consequences of their crimes are seen drawing near, like the shadow of fate, they can no longer conceal from even themselves how false, how puny they are and, hence, they tremble and are afraid.

Ah! defiant and confident as they seem, the lives of these boastful, inveterate reformers are white with fear and they call loudly, in the hour of their tribulation, on those whom they have deceived to stand with them in their extremity. Their exact language is, to cling to their religion, but every body understands whom that abused term is intended to shield from ignominy and, most unfortunately just at this juncture, there is far from the unanimity among those to whom the prophets looked for support that they had evidently hoped to find. Never united as to polygamy, the people are now divided and not to be depended upon by their false leaders, and great is their tribulation in consequence. Mark these apostles! how, instead of coming out and offering themselves to shield their people from supposed danger, they shrink from the ordeal, endeavoring to skulk among the crowd and find safety for their miserable selves in the numbers of their doubting adherents. In the end it will be seen, that these sanctimonious hypocrites, blatant as they are and have been, are not possessed of one single spark of that sublime heroism, which defines martyrdom, but will show themselves the genuine Falstaff breed and, when brought to the test will sink beneath contempt.

SERVED THEM RIGHT.—It is said that the Rothschilds, through their American agent, Belmont, were induced to invest one hundred millions in Confederate bonds, which to-day are not worth the paper on which they are printed, while not a dollar of their money has gone to sustain the Federal Government. When foreign capitalists appoint for their financial agents in this country men noted for their hostility to our Government, it is a matter of congratulation rather than of shame that their money goes out never to return.

Correspondence.

GOLD MINES ON THE NEW ROAD TO DENVER.

HOBBS CREEK CARON.

Dear Veda.—We left our girls behind us, therefore we have no extenuating apologies to offer for not communicating, occasionally, to your valuable paper, relative to the past, present and future of this expedition.

The "Tribune" is making rapid progress with the road, considering the obstacles they have had to contend with. It is a stupendous piece of work and reflects great credit on the soldiers who day by day toil for its completion. Lieut. Whitney, with a small party, made a tour of observation for ten days in the direction of our destination. They found gold in small quantities, and brought some (from appearances) good paying rock into camp. They report that the mountains around where they found gold were literally covered with quartz boulders and ledges—wood and water in abundance. Also, plenty of deer, elk, antelope, grizzly, beaver and porcupine. We do not know the exact altitude of our present encampment, but the air is very light, and it rains, snows, or falls seven eighths of the time. Col. John's command crossed Strawberry Peak to day.

Your correspondent seems to lay considerable stress on our co-operating with the Mormons, and celebrating the glorious Fourth in a manner becoming good and loyal citizens—thinks that we might have been otherwise engaged to better advantage. We don't see the point. We know nothing about road-building—(if we did, the pay wouldn't justify us.) Still we may "take a turn on the road," by way of maintaining our reputation, as "quintillas." Well, we had a gay time, while they merely rested. That's what the matter. But, according to his fastidious notions of loyalty, we were "out of place," which is kindly imputed to our ignorance of the Mormon character. We frankly admit that we have not had the opportunity to study their character to so great advantage as some have; not being so closely allied.

As to that object which was seen on the mountains, that caused so much excitement, and so many conjectures, as to whether it was a Lion, Indian, Bear or stray Neveadain. Your humble correspondent thinks that they showed admirable discretion in going in pursuit (a dozen or more) armed cap a pie, for had it proved a stray Neveadain, with hostile intent, their force would not have been more than adequate to have effected his capture.

In our next, which will probably be from Strawberry Valley, we will give a correct description of the country, etc., etc.

Montana items.

The Post of the 22d, quotes Salt Lake Hour at $18, $19 and $20 per 100 lbs. per qualities. Few trains arrived that week, and trade was light. It rained steadily for three days, the heaviest since the settlement of the Territory, causing suspension of mining and delay to freighting. Arrivals from Fort Benton and from the Plains were expected the ensuing week. The market was not materially changed, yet firmer, and with an upward tendency for groceries and provisions. Hams and bacon advanced five to ten cents, the stock, just then, being very light.

The citizens of Helena, Last Chance, are evidently "religious, cusses," from the fact of Methodist Hymn books being advertised on sale at their "City Book Store." They are also "gay and festive" full, from the fact of their having "seven horse races on last Sunday."

Emigration via the Missouri river has ceased to arrive. Most of the families have come in and located in different portions of the Territory, generally settling on farms.

IMPROVEMENT.—Taylor, Thompson & Co. are putting up a fire proof warehouse 25x25, at the rear of their store on Main street.

The weather last week, on the banks of Last Chance, has been rather disagreeable. It has been raining most of the time.

The new M. E. Church, in Helena, will be dedicated by the Rev. A. M. Hough of Virginia City, at 10 1/2 o'clock on Sunday, July 30th.

The fortunate owner of the claim in Nelson Gulch who took out the two thousand and nineteen dollar nugget found another one, valued at one hundred and ten dollars.

William Spencer & Co. announce the departure of their fleet of Mackinaw boats from Fort Benton for the East, on the 25th of August. The bullet-proof "skins" are very consoling. This will afford an opportunity to many a poor fellow to visit the old folks at home, and the girl he left behind him.

STAMPING.—The Paradise of stampeders is the Blackfoot country. The rush of that species of the genus homo hither and thither, now depopulates Blackfoot City, and anon fills it with disappointed prospectors, ready at a moment's notice to fly again to a distant Eldorado, supposed to be richer than any former discovery. It seems as if the mining population of this region are determined not to work the good paying ground they have, but are bent on discovering richer diggings.

MAJOR GENERAL J. W. GEARY.—This gallant officer, late in command of the second division of the Twentieth Army Corps, was the first Alcalde of the city of San Francisco, and will be remembered by all old residents of that city. In his farewell order, on the disbandment to his corps, he concluded with the following beautiful tribute to the fidelity of his officers and men:

"Veterans, truly, all of you—men of whom your country is proud, and who are now prouder than ever of your country. Your children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren will have passed away long before your heroic deeds shall have been forgotten, or the memories of that great struggle, throughout which we have stood shoulder to shoulder, and swept from the Atlantic to the Mississippi, and back again to the Atlantic, shall cease to nerve our descendants to noble deeds and brave actions. Your country has been saved, and yours is no small share in the glorious right to be proud of the result.

A few months or years hence, and those of us who survive, will again be citizens of the noblest republic and freest nation on the globe. Noble, because by its laws the common people, who saved her in the years of peril, free, because truth, right and justice, by God's national politics, the sword, has made her free; proud, because unaided and uncountenanced by other nations, she has demonstrated to the world that the people, who educate all their youth and make all their laws, can, with the strong arms of their educated youth, enforce their laws, maintain their integrity, and pay their debts.

Be justly proud of our common record and of our common country. Cherish with the memories of the banner under which you gloriously fought and won the victory, the badge of our Union—the spotted star—the emblem of hope and glory.

Soldiers—comrades—farewell. May the memory of our fallen heroes, strewn down by thousands at our side, hallow our parting and consecrate our devotion to our God, our country, and each other."

States Items.

The total number of National Banks throughout the country is 1,297.

Gov. Brough of Ohio declines to be a candidate for reelection to the gubernatorial office.

The largest of the Indian tribes at the West is the Camanches. That tribe numbers some 20,000 in all.

The lately deceased Justice Catron did not miss a term of the Supreme Court at Washington for 27 years.

In his plea for pardon, ex-Vice President Stephens is said to still insist on the righteousness and necessity of Slavery!

Several of the French ministers speak of resigning if the French troops are not immediately recalled from Mexico.

The New York Herald estimates that its war correspondence during the past four years has cost nearly half a million dollars.

Pierre Soule, formerly United States Senator from Louisiana, and Rebel Envoy to Spain, is about to open a law office in the City of Mexico.

In 1862 the names of all pensioners from the rebellious States were dropped from the rolls; if any now wish their names restored it will be done on proof that the persons applying have remained loyal throughout the Rebellion.

The whole number of troops sent north and west from Washington, since the great review, is a trifle under 155,000, of whom about half have gone home to be mustered out. There yet remains within a circuit of fifteen miles of the city not far from seventy five thousand.

Among the prisoners of war released from Rock Island barracks the other day, was one who went straight to the telegraph office and sent a dispatch, at a cost of $5.95 paid in advance, to Jeff Davis, requesting him to remit the amount due him for 18 months' service in the rebel army.

Facts on Advertising.

The advertisements in an ordinary number of the London Times exceed 2,500. The annual advertising bills of one London firm are said to amount to $200,000; and three others mentioned who annually expend for the same purpose $50,000. The expense for advertising the eight editions of the Encyclopedia Britannica, is said to have been $15,000.

It is also a settled fact that $10,000,000 a year are expended in England in extra advertising, by circulars, and hand-bills and placards. In large cities, nothing is more common than to see large business establishments, which seem to have an immense advantage over all competitors by the wealth, experience and prestige they have acquired, drop gradually out of public view, and be succeeded by firms of a smaller capital, more energy, and more determination to have the fact that they sell such and such commodities known from one end of the land to the other. In other words, the new establishments advertise; the old die of dignity. The former are ravenous to pass out of obscurity into publicity; the latter believe that their publicity is so obvious that it cannot be obscured. The first understand that they must thrust themselves on public attention or be disregarded; the second having once obtained public attention, suppose they have arrested it permanently, while in fact nothing is more characteristic of the world than the ease with which it forgets.

HIS LAST BOW.—"My dearest uncle," says a humorous writer, "was the most polite man in the world. He was making a voyage on the Danube, and the boat sunk. My uncle was just on the point of drowning. He got his head above the water for once, took off his hat, and said, 'Ladies and gentlemen, will you please excuse me?' and down he went."
